

“Killer”

Situation

Some people are sat around not doing much. Either in a training session, or, you know, the park/cinema/library etc.

Mission

Have some fun shooting

Execution

Set-up:

One post, a long line of people, two balls in the hands of the two front people.

1. If you don't know how to play Killer, I'm not sure you're really a coach at this club...

2. First person shoots, and immediately the person behind can start shooting. Players collect their own shots and shoot again from wherever they've collected it. When a player scores he/she joins the back of the line, passing the ball to the next person at the front.

3. However, if the person who is behind you in the line scores before you do, you're out of the game and must pass your ball to the front of the queue, and go sit somewhere and reflect on your failure...

4. Simple, I know.

Progression:

Team Killer – Divide everyone into teams, leading to some tactical play when people have to avoid getting their own teammates out.
